H. Dean Steward, P.C.

In a field where winning is everything, OC attorney Dean Steward is unquestionably a winner. With 36 years of federal courtroom experience to his credit, Steward is widely considered a legal force to be reckoned with. Formerly in charge of the Federal Public Defender Office in Orange County, Steward has over 200 jury trials to his credit. This white-collar-crime virtuoso has even had one of his high-profile cases portrayed in a four-part television mini-series. After working his way through law school as a firefighter, Steward has risen through the ranks, earning numerous awards and accolades. When asked, Steward says his most significant accomplishment is being named a Fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers, a best-of-the-best professional trial organization reserved for the legal world's elite. With a firm that favors high quality client service over high volume caseloads, Steward is known for working closely with clients to achieve consistently favorable outcomes.
